

Strategic Plan 2017 - 2019

What we do

We are the national body owned by the Australian State and Territory Architect Registration Boards responsible for establishing, advocating and promoting national standards in architectural education and the practice of architecture for the benefit of the Australian community.

What we value

- Transparency
- Being respectful to everyone
- A rigorous approach to what we do
- Collaboration with our stakeholders
- Being an intelligent organisation that can respond and adapt

Promote standards

- Promote National Standard of Competency for Architects
- Engage with stakeholders
- Establish and maintain good corporate governance and management structures

Recognise qualifications

- Develop mutual respect and trust with international counterpart bodies and international authorities
- Engage with international and national bodies to promote equivalent competencies for architect registration
- Identify opportunities for new international agreements for recognition of registration

Improve pathways to registration

- Continually improve national assessment processes
- Identify opportunities for diversification of AACA services
- Facilitate acceptance of a model for national recognition of architect's registration

Generate data

- Research and disseminate information about architects and architectural services in Australia
- Communicate information about architects in Australia for the information of consumers of architectural services, government and the public
- Influence and advocate on government policy
- Research and propose options for improving regulation in architectural and related occupations
